Beneath the Spire...

ON TRUMPETS AND EASTER MORNING

One Easter morning some number of years ago, I woke up long before the sun had graced the foothills of North Carolina. Well, to be more specific, I didn't just "wake up." I was awakened. That's different. It was the sound of trumpets blaring that jarred me from sleep, and for a brief moment I thought I had actually lived to see the second coming of Jesus and looked heavenward to see if pearly gates were really appearing before my sleepy eyes.

But the brass wasn't coming from above. It was outside my front door. I got out of bed and went downstairs to look. And there, standing in our next door neighbor's front yard, was a brass quintet (or maybe there were six of them?) playing Easter hymns. Well, I thought, this was different. They played for a few more minutes, then piled into the van parked on the other side of the street and took off.

I quickly forgot about this odd start to my Easter day, with all the goings-on at church that morning. But a week or so later I mentioned it to a friend. "Ah," she said. Where do you live again?" I told her. Turns out that our family had moved into what had been for a long time the Moravian part of town – there was a Moravian church just up the street from us. And for a number of years it was tradition that a small gathering of the Moravian band faithful would get up at 4:00 a.m. on Easter morning, drive around to various Moravian households, and provide a short pre-Easter dawn concert. It was then that I remembered that our next door neighbor was, in fact, Moravian.

The next year I was surprised again by their early morning music, but at least I knew why. The year after that, it surprised me, but not nearly as much. From that point on, we expected it. We heard the trumpets and knew exactly what they were for. And I, for one, kind of liked it.

There is something beautifully simple about a quiet Easter morning, long before the worship services start and right before the sun rises. I enjoy that time. At the same time, trumpets make a lot of sense too. After all, stones don't roll away silently from the tombs they once enclosed. Fast-traveling news of the women comes with a certain decibel level attached to it. There is no way to quietly put out there the reality that death has been defeated, that life has won and won forever. That's not something you can share subtly. And besides, even if you could, why would you want to?

I can't play a brass instrument and I'm not Moravian, so I probably wouldn't do a whole lot of good in a pre-dawn Easter band. But I can live my life as one of the "Easter people." One who has been through Good Friday and the Saturday that followed and found life everlasting on the other side. One, like many, who has found the resurrected Jesus and will never be the same for it.

As we prepare to celebrate Easter here at Trinity, let the trumpets of our lives blare: He is risen, he is risen indeed!

The changes were approved as presented.

Dear Friends,

Thank you for the many ways, all meaningful and delightful, that you have shared in celebrating both my thirty years of music ministry at Trinity and my retirement. The money gift you presented me at the elegant reception on January 25 was very generous. I continue to enjoy the scrapbook with its many treasures, and the conversations I had with so many of you from November through January will continue to resound in my thoughts. The worship and study experiences we shared and the profound friendships that developed over the years have sustained my spiritual growth in ways that will endure through the rest of my life.

Thank you also for the many ways you embraced John, Meg and Will over the years, so that you came to feel not just like teachers, friends and role models, but also like family. Many of you always will be present in our family's memories of these thirty years, and our love for you will not fade.

Wherever our lives take us in the years to come, the people of Trinity will always have a place of love and esteem in my heart, and remembering you will be a source of joy, comfort, and renewing energy.

With abiding love and gratitude,

Jane

UPDATE FROM THE ASSOCIATE PASTOR NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Since posting our Ministry Information Form in late December with Presbytery's central office in Louisville, Kentucky, we have received numerous positive responses. We have received several dozen PIFs, we have reviewed them all, and we have started to zero in on a small number of very strong candidates.

We are currently in the process of listening to their sermons, speaking to their references, and scheduling more in-depth conversations with each candidate.

We would like to thank the congregation for their continued prayers and support as we work through this process.

MUSIC DIRECTOR SEARCH COMMITTEE

We wish to let you know that a Search Committee for Trinity's new Music Director has been formed, with input from the Worship and Personnel Ministry Teams and the approval of Session. Members include Donnie Bobbitt, David Hood, May Johnston, Chair, George Lampe, Reta Phifer, Carol Sugg, and Steve Lindsley, ex officio.

While we know we are currently in good hands with our Interim Choir Director, Chris Gilliam, and organist, Michael Rowland, the team is excited to move forward in this process of selecting a permanent Music Director for Trinity. Over the next several months, we will continue to keep you informed of our progress.

One of the first tasks we plan to undertake is to prepare a brief survey to share with all church members to garner your thoughts, ideas, and suggestions or concerns. We value your input and wish to take all responses into consideration.

The team wants to be as open and transparent as possible during this process and we invite you to contact any of us with questions or concerns should you have them. In the meantime, "stay tuned," and please be on the lookout for an email or a hard copy of the survey.

SING WITH THE TRINITY CHOIR

Your Trinity Choir is seeking new members to join them in their dedicated ministry in Sunday worship. The choir invites interested individuals (high school age and above) to speak with Interim Director of Music, Chris Gilliam, after the service or email him at cgilliam@trinitypreschurch.org.

Change is hard. Change is inevitable. We see change everywhere - in our daily lives, in the mirror, in the pews, and in our faith. We rarely like change - we fear and resist change as humans and as a church. But change is not always bad. It can be a catalyst to an awakening and rebirth. We celebrate the stories of change in our own lives - our awakenings, and our own transformations.

We all have a story about change - What's yours? Join Presbyterian lay leaders and pastors from all over North Carolina as we explore change in our own stories with renowned speaker and author Diana Butler Bass and talk about how change affects us, the church, and Christianity.

Diana Butler Bass is a historian focusing on the history of Christianity and a leading voice in progressive Christianity. Bass is currently an independent scholar who writes broadly on American religion and culture.

Workdays at Trinity

It is spring and time for an outside workday at Trinity! We have need of many hands to help with projects around the church, one of which is to be good neighbors and clear and mulch an edge for safer walking and driving visibility along Montclair Avenue near the site of the old scout hut. There are other projects, too, so please join us as we continue to be good stewards of our property.

We have chosen two dates as there is plenty to do and in case we should get rained out on the first date: Saturday, March 21 and April 18.

Brass Polishing is also scheduled for Saturday, March 28 at 9:30 a.m. in the Sanctuary. Please join us as we prepare for Easter.

If you have any questions contact Dale Sarjeant at 704.905.3746 or email dsarj50@gmail.com or call Tom Heuerman at 704.364.5460.

And remember, “So much depends upon a red wheelbarrow” and willing hands and hearts!

Easter Lilies

The Flower Committee, a subcommittee of the Worship Committee, invites you to contribute a lily to decorate the Sanctuary on Easter Sunday. To do so, please return the form below or one from the pew at church along with your contribution no later than Tuesday, March 31.

Holy Week Services at Trinity

Holy Week is a special time when we journey together, following in the footsteps of Jesus and his disciples in what would be his final week. Worship at Trinity during Holy Week, beginning March 29, gives us an opportunity to experience the rich and meaningful ways that those events become real in our lives today.

PALM SUNDAY, March 29 11:00 a.m.

And those who went before and those who followed cried out, "Hosanna! Blessed be he who comes in the name of the Lord!"
(Mark 11:9)

The congregational procession, a wonderful Trinity tradition, will begin in the Narthex. All who are able may join. Palm branches will be handed out for those who wish to use them and we will process into the Sanctuary and our seats during the opening hymn.

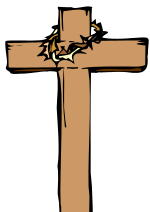

If raining, those who can manage the stairs will be asked to assemble in the Undercroft (the space underneath the Sanctuary).

MAUNDY THURSDAY, April 2 7:30 p.m., Communion

A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; even as I have loved you ...
(John 13:34)

"Maundy" Thursday takes its name from the Latin mandatum which means "commandment" given by Jesus to his followers as they ate their last supper together. Communion will be served as part of this worship experience.

GOOD FRIDAY, April 3 12 noon

So they took Jesus ... and crucified him.
(John 19:17-18)

Our worship at noon will include hymns, readings, scripture and music for meditation.

EASTER SUNDAY, April 5 11:00 a.m.

He is risen! All are invited to worship on this special day. Our choir will lead us in beautiful music and communion will be served.

IMPACT STORY - Sandra Nutter

Congregation members share an "Impact Story" during the worship service at least monthly. Please find below Sandra Nutter's story shared October 26, 2014.

Impact is defined as having an affect upon. Trinity Presbyterian Church has had an impact on me.

Beginning with the comment from my sister, who had been visiting churches in Charlotte 26 years ago. "You have got to hear the minister at Trinity." Doctor Patrick was a remarkable speaker. So in a way you might say I came to Trinity for Doctor Patrick, but I stayed for the people.

The people I met were from all different places and backgrounds, different walks of life and careers varied as night and day, but all with a common goal: to become God's hands and feet on earth.

I remember so many instances that Trinity showed what it means to be just that.

My husband was hospitalized at age 40 for a quadruple bi-pass. Congregants came out of nowhere to care for our young family. Offers of help with the children, household chores and food. Oh the food, food we affectionately call in our home "Charity Chicken". So much delicious food. It was fantastic!

Gestures big and small, never in my life had I experienced unconditional love on such a scale. FAMILY on a church wide scale.

And then again, when my parents died as a result of a car accident ten years ago, so many letters and kind gestures. I think we received so many sympathy cards that you could not hold all of them in your two hands. And yes, you guessed it, more "Charity Chicken." Wow!

And in between each life changing episode, there is the everyday. And in the everyday there are opportunities for service and study and worship. And in those opportunities another chance to grow my church family even more. Each opportunity brings a new group of people to become related to.

You could ask my husband or either of our two children and they would be able to name "relatives" here at Trinity that share a common bond with them as well.

And it is, in that vein I will say, "Thank you and I Love You".

To God be all the Glory.

MISSION - MINDED

TRINITY'S FRIENDSHIP GARDEN takes many hands to make it successful. Would you like to participate but can't commit to an entire season? This year we're asking families and/or individuals to commit to one week of tending the garden (Monday – Sunday). Obviously some weeks will require more “tending” than others but even in the busiest times (during harvesting) you won't have to go every day. What a wonderful way to contribute to this vital ministry while experiencing the miracle of watching seeds and small plants turn into produce. Children have marveled at the realization that potatoes and carrots do NOT come from Harris-Teeter! Last year our garden contributed 338 pounds of fresh produce to Friendship Trays (Charlotte's home meal delivery service). The gardeners also get to share in the bounty. Please sign-up for a week (or share a week with another individual or family) at the www.signupgenius.com (Trinity Presbyterian Friendship Garden: Tending Trinity's Garden). For further information contact Carol or Gary Sugg at csrsugg@aol.com or 704.552.2955.
